PUBLIC ORDER AND GAMBLING.

One among the best writers in Modern times when discussing the efforts made by the people in civilized nations to secure liberty, uses the following language. "We have a phenomenon peculiar to modern times in the provident and persistent effort to recompense security with liberty and the bold development of individual powers, with the regular maintenance of public order."

The phenomenon mentioned in connection with individual powers is not peculiar to modern times, but it does belong to our time when applied to the maintenance of public order in connection with the exercise of individual powers. In the exercise of individual powers in connection with the maintenance of public order, there is the chief evidence of a better and higher civilization in secular affairs.

Whatever tends to degrade the public mind has a tendency to disorder. Any violation of law is degrading because it is in opposition to a rule of conduct prescribed by the law making power and is disorder.

Disorder is in opposition to the principle in which there is true liberty to the citizen. In order as prescribed by law there is security, and there can be no such thing as liberty without its presence.

When license is substituted for liberty, order is not present as license is in opposition to order in public affairs. Whenever the law makes power through its action from any cause makes lawful that which is degrading or that which has a degrading tendency it is vicious legislation, which is in opposition to orderly conduct by the citizen and is against good government.

Vicious legislation is evidence of the presence of two conditions of mind in the legislator—one of these conditions is ignorance and the other is an absence of suitable powers to legislate for a self governing community. A citizen may be ignorant and have in him the innate powers that make him an upright man and good citizen.

When ignorance is present and the powers are absent he should be improved upon before he is sent to the legislature to make laws for intelligent men who are capable of aiding in running a Republic.

When ignorance is not among the disabilities and the required powers to make a legislator are absent, the less such a man has to do with law-making will be to the larger advantage of the people he lives among. When a legislator is a power that provides schools to teach immorality to the youth of a State, to make its work consistent it should abolish the common or public school system, the colleges and the universities in the State to all the immoral department provided.

It is an obligation upon every man not included in casts he may take who is chosen to make laws for a people to provide for them laws to maintain public order, which cannot be done unless the highest moral good of the community is kept in view in laws that apply to society. It does not appear in the work of the last legislature in Nevada that there was much knowledge present in a majority of its members respecting the cost in blood and treasure at every step made in the ages that have past, which secured to them the right to enter legislative halls, when they were providing an amendment to the constitution of the State to authorize a lottery, which is admitted by all well informed people to be one of the most degrading and order destroying systems known to barbarous legislation.

Gambling has ever been an order destroying system, which is known to all gamblers, or they would not ask legislation to regulate it, which all well informed gamblers prefer. They seek protection through law regulating the business, and the chief reason they have for seeking protection is its de-organizing and disorderly tendency. Cortez, when conducting the conquest of Mexico, had to prohibit it among his soldiers, under the most severe penalties, to secure obedience to orders.

There are men who are not fully informed upon the demoralizing effects of gambling who favor an amendment of the constitution to secure a lottery system in the State, under the belief that it would be benefited by a lottery to the sum of thirty thousand dollars annually in the form of revenue, which is a very narrow view in take of a system that would entail upon the State the most blighting conditions that have been upon it.

A lottery in the State would destroy its industries for the time of its existence as a legalized business, by excluding from it capital and home seekers, whom the State must have to continue the prosperity it has entered upon in the last two years. Should the legislature desire to continue the conditions which have been present in the State from its beginning, a lottery will be the most effectual means possible to secure them.

SAGEBRUSH OCCURRENCES

What Nevada Papers Say About Happenings in This State.

Elko's building boom continues. Carson has now an all night telephone service.

There is considerable sickness in Austin.

The postoffice at Chat has been discontinued.

John Green of Lovelock was shot in the eye the other day.

Prof. Howe has been reelected principal of the Carson schools.

Virginia and Carson sustained some damage during the recent storm.

Judge Fitzgerald has leased the Clarke house in Carson and will reside there during his term of office.

News of the Public Schools.

The School Board are having a commodious apparatus built in the High School Laboratory under the supervision of Principal Bray. It is to hold the new instruments and machines lately purchased by the Principal and Mr. Brandon for the use of the High School. They have purchased some very necessary apparatus at their own risk, expecting to pay for it out of the proceeds of entertainments and lectures. Their energy and public spirit should be warmly commended.

The present semester will end the latter part of January. Final examinations will be held in all the departments at that time, and new records will be begun in the first Monday of the February school month.

County Superintendent-elect W. H. A. Pike has moved his family to Reno. Two of his children will enter the Reno High School.

The sheds at the High School, destroyed by the great windstorm of last Wednesday, are to be immediately rebuilt.

The deep well bored on the High School yards by order of the trustees, is probably need for a greater extent than any other in Reno. Pupils use it at all hours of the day, and the entire neighborhood find its waters both pleasing to the taste and useful in cooking. Even the milkmen may be seen daily filling their cans with the pure, natural liquid what is drawn or pumped from this well.

Unsatisfactory Jury Report.

Coroner Peers impaneled a jury yesterday to inquire into the cause of the death of Harry Brooks. They took a cursory look at the body and decided that death resulted from causes unknown to them.

Under Section 2433 of the compiled statutes they are required "to set forth by what means he came to his death."

Under the law of Nevada if there is doubt as to whether the deceased came to his death by natural causes, a surgeon or physician should be sum moned to inspect the body.

This was not done yesterday, and the inquest was a farce. The decision was an aggregation of idle words. Nobody knows whether Brooks died from heart disease, self-inflicted poison or foul play, but the county pays the costs. An autopsy would have been the proper proceeding under the circumstances, and there is time for that yet.

Yesterday morning's swing carried a number of men up the river to work on the ice.

The ice crop has been injured by the recent storm. Cutting is in progress at Island, Baco and Prosser.

HOW PAPER
IS MADE

Some of the Destructive Substances That Enter into the Process.

In the manufacture of paper from wood pulp there are two general processes—one the soda and the other the sulphite process.

The latter is the preferable owing to the better product produced but has one very restraining influence to its general adoption, and that is the affinity of the bisulphide for iron. To explain the process generally we will start from the point where the wood is delivered to the mill in 5 ft lengths.

The wood after being received, is cut into lengths of about 8 ft long, then placed against a machine called a "barker," which quickly removes the bark, then they are split and the pieces shoved into a machine at an incline.

This machine tears it into shavings, which are then placed for inspection and all parts which are not readily acted upon by the alkalies—such as knots, etc., are removed—from there they pass into the lixiviating apparatus.

The digester is either made from some expensive metal not attacked by the bisulphide or is lined with either lead or tiles laid in cement and then made of iron or steel.

Afterwards shavings are thrown into it and for several hours are subject to steam. This is then shut off and acid run in and then further steam until a high temperature is reached and maintained for about 8 hours. By this action all the soluble substances which surround and permeate the fibre are dissolved, the sulphite remaining as a soft mass in the liquid. It is now boiled until by test it is found just properly cooked and then it is run onto the floor.

From here it is either run directly into paper of the cheaper yellow varieties or it is bleached for the finer white varieties. The bisulphide is obtained by the reaction of sulphurous acid produced by the wasting of pyrites or by burning sulphur upon limestone. It is a colorless liquid of an odor simply suffocating and attacks all the common metals except lead.

The more expensive qualities of paper require further treatment by such chemicals as sulphuric acid, super-saturated ammonia, concentrated mother liquor resulting from the manufacture of chloride of zinc, a neutral solution of zinc chloride, zinc iodide, etc., depending simply upon what use it is to be put to. If rags are used as all to mix with the pulp another array of chemicals must be used, such as soda ash, caustic soda, sulphate of soda, chloride of tin, hyposulphite of soda, etc., in the general manufacture.

From the paper mill it is sent to the paper mill where it is made into paper of the desired quality.

Last Meeting
of the Board.

The last meeting of the old board of County Commissioners was held yesterday afternoon. When next they assemble it will be to take farewell of Mr. Schesling, the retiring member, and bid his successor, Mr. Holcomb, welcome.

Mr. Schesling has devoted his best efforts to the county's welfare, and it is with regret that his departure from office will be witnessed. Grove L.
Holcomb is eminently qualified to take the vacant chair. He will prove one of the most energetic members of the board.

E. L. Williams, District Attorney, attended this, his last meeting of the board. He has acted with all good intent and impartiality. His arduous duties were painstakingly performed.
W. H. A. Pike will without question make an energetic and conscientious District Attorney. He is learned in the law and possessed of a fine judicial mind.

The Directory Revised.

Several names were omitted in the JOURNAL'S 1901 directory of Reno.
Since it was issued a number of citizens have changed addresses, and a number of new people have arrived since the canvass was made.

A request is hereby made that people whose names do not appear or where there is an error in address, report the same to the JOURNAL office without delay. A supplement will be printed and distributed free to all holders of directories.

The revised addition will be on sale at Harry Davis' store and at this office for $1.25 each. Secure a volume in time as there remain but 100 more directories.

A Great Combination.

The NEVADA STATE JOURNAL and the Commoner, William J. Bryan's paper, have entered into a combination,

Commoner will be supplied for $7 a year, and the WEEKLY JOURNAL and Commoner for $3 a year. Cash must accompany all orders. Address all communications to Webster & Son, Reno, Nev.

See the display advertisement of this combination in another column.

Up to one year ago he was considered one of the best middleweights in California. He had 21 ring battles, losing but one decision. On retiring from the ring he became manager and instructor of the Capitol City Athletic club of Sacramento.

During his stay in Reno Mr. Pendegast
